Residents of L.G. Can See Post Office Of Future At Fair

Visitors to the New York World's Fair from Lemon Grove have an opportunity to see a post office of the future, Postmaster Frenchy Faucher said today.

A carefully chosen group of 80 employees from New York area post offices man the facility which handles all the Fair's mail and some from the Flushing, New York area. The outside mail is used to keep the highly mechanized devices operating at "full tilt."

The post office handles approximately 250,000 pieces of mail each day.

Postcards to friends and relatives back home are a big item. About 30,000 are mailed from the Fair each day. One third of these are addressed to persons overseas.

For foreign visitors having trouble understanding U.S. postal operations, the facility has staff members who speak twenty languages.

Postmaster Faucher notes that residents of Lemon Grove who attend the Fair and wish to try out their foreign language ability can either talk with the multi-lingual window clerks or listen to a tape recorded presentation in the post office lobby which features individual earphones for those who speak Japanese, French, German, Italian and Spanish.

A larger device, the Burroughs sorter, drops letters and cards into 131 different bins at a rate of 58 letters per minute for each of the twelve operators.

Forty new readers were added to the subscription rolls of this newspaper this week as the Aid for Retarded Children program continued to produce funds for the youngsters' playground project.

Part of the proceeds on each subscription is being turned over to Angels Unaware, the East County Chapter of the San Diego Association for Retarded Children.

The forty new subscribers brings the campaign total to 403.

The campaign is being waged presently only in Spring Valley. As soon as all persons there have had an opportunity to take part in the project, Lemon Grove residents will be invited to participate. Is expected to add 1,000 more readers in Spring Valley and a like number in Lemon Grove. Contributions are made in the name of each subscriber as he pays. Donations are made in amounts from ten cents to $3.50. The larger amount is given when a new subscriber brings in a friend or neighbor as a subscriber without being solicited by sales persons. The smaller amount is for a solicited renewal. In any event, Angels Unaware profits.

Angels Unaware operates a day center on East Lexington in El Cajon. Youngsters, unable to qualify for public school training, are accepted there. Many youngsters from Spring Valley and Lemon Grove homes have already attended the center.

The DIMMER VIEW

by MAX GOODWIN

The Worm Is Turning?

The downtown business community of Lexington, Ky., sorely hurt because outlying shopping centers pulled retail shopping traffic away from the central part of the city, asked the Lexington City government to give them aid.

The City passed some sort of legislation under which the centers would be more strictly controlled. We are sure that such legislation was not only too late but also ineffective. We cite it here to make a point that established business communities in Lexington, and everywhere else in the nation, have been forced to share the retail dollar with these new shopping developments. As a result, many marginal operators failed. Those left to fight it out have found the going tough. It is as true in San Diego as in Lexington — and it is just as true in Lemon Grove. Lemon Grove is perhaps different than Spring Valley since a developed retail district in Spring Valley didn't exist prior to the coming of the centers.

All of this is an introductory of the probable turning of the worm in the Lemon Grove business community. In the fall of the year Thrifty Drugs will open in Lemon Grove. Thrifty will be the first major retail firm ever to open in the town.

Food markets do not attract retail shoppers, many say. The grocery shopper goes only to the market and returns immediately home. Meat and produce freshness, frozen foods concern, and fear of leaving grocery items unguarded in the car while shopping contributes to this philosophy.

With the coming of Thrifty to a soon-to-be completed building at Imperial near Golden, a revitalization of shopping traffic may be expected. It is reasonable to believe that may shoppers will come to Lemon Grove to shop at Thrifty who do not now shop there because Thrifty is actually a junior department store rather than a drug store. The firm's advertising and merchandising practices will draw these new shoppers here.

Other business firms will have a better chance at getting part of the retail dollar of the shopper if he comes into the community than if he doesn't. We believe that satellite business firms will be started within walking distance of the new development in order to trap some of the new-born traffic.

This is our evaluation of a potential turn-about of the shopping center problem in a local community. The eyes of many retailers are being focused on the area to see what happens to retail traffic when Thrifty opens.

Howell reminds us that the reduction in the tax rate from 18% to 14% in March was not coordinated with the effective 1964 tax rates. So, says he, you will probably owe over and above your withholding.

There are two ways to compensate for the shortage of money you will face when your tax bill comes due. 1.) Arrange with your employer to reduce the number of exemptions you claim. Each exemption dropped will cost you about $1.60 more a week. That goes into the withholding tax pot. This will not affect the number of exemptions you may claim on your final return. It just gets more money withheld for you. 2.) You may file an amended tax declaration and increase your estimate. You may do this before September 15, 1964. Otherwise, you probably will be underwithheld and Uncle Samuel will call on you for an added wad of dough when tax season comes.

In the quest for more income tax to compensate for the tax reduction on wages earlier this year, Uncle has turned to the income produced by tips, or as they say in the better saloons, "gratuities".

First step is to get tips under Social Security. Toward this end the House Ways and Means committee has approved a new requirement that tip income received by waiters, bellhops, cab drivers and the like, be covered by Social Security taxes.

Now comes the fantastic part. The employer is charged with reporting the workers' tip income and matching it with an equal share, as he now does for salaried employees, sending the total sum on to Uncle Sam.

What a bookkeeping problem for some of the auditors.

Classes Filling Up At Grossmont College

Students planning to attend Grossmont College at the new campus in Fletcher Hills this fall were reminded by school officials that not only are day-time classes rapidly filling up, but that the night classes also are starting to feel a pinch.

Director of the evening division, C. H. Palmer, announced that 40% of the expected evening enrollment of 700 already have been programmed. Because of the 35% increase in enrollment over last year many general education classes are closing out and English classes are nearing capacity, he said.

However, there is still a wide choice of courses, Palmer said, in many areas, including business, history, mathematics, and music.

Students who have not filed for admission to the College should contact the college office soon in order to be able to get their records, counseling and programming properly taken care of by September 4, he said.

Final placement examinations will be given Aug. 29 beginning at 8:30 a.m. and on Sept. 4 at 7 p.m. Reservations must be made at the college admissions office. Students who have previously enrolled should make programming appointments as soon as possible, Palmer said.

Budget Provides For Larar Staff At Local College

The Grossmont Junior College District Governing Board this week approved the budget for the 1964-65 school year. The amount is $2,140,740, as compared to $1,459,594 for 1963-64, a raise of $681,216. The capital outlay for the current year will be $476,691 as compared to $144,337 for the next year. Certified salaries will amount to $869,858, as compared to last year's $661,475. The non-classified salaries will amount to $168,930 as compared to $107,232 last year. John Hansen, Grossmont College president, said there will be an increase by half in the teaching staff and an increase of one-third in enrollment.

The board also went on record as renewing an agreement with the San Diego Unified School District whereby junior college students of either district may attend one college or the other. This is because the student may wish to take a subject that his or her own college may not have. There will be no charge to either district for the academic or vocational student going from one district to the other. A charge will be just for a vocational program.
